> Exbabel model configurations. Exbabel Flagship Model denotes the OpenAI-backed speech engine. Exbabel Translation Model denotes the Gemini-backed speech engine. Exbabel uses custom prompting in its translation system. The 180-clip comparison measured the underlying engines directly. The isolated worker probes tested Exbabel routing separately; one French clip compared the worker with and without a terminology instruction. The study did not estimate a general improvement from custom prompting.

This casebook contains 66 aligned UN speech comparisons, 35 controlled written/read-aloud cases and 12 matched prepared statements. The same speech may appear in more than one experiment. Sixteen focused examples explain particular choices; the full record includes all 55 Direct Assessment cases and 11 additional cuts with provisional alignment.

Quotes reproduce machine transcripts of recorded speech, including uncertain names, repetitions and apparent credits. They are not verbatim certifications. Raw DA points describe the selected clip as a whole. A short quoted phrase can be accurate even when another part of that clip is defective. Alignment audit · The reference captures the main idea of strengthening the implementation of the Women Peace and Security Agenda in the context of the 25th anniversary of Resolution 1325 by the UN. However, it omits the explicit mention of 'promotion' and 'in Africa' from the source, which are meaningful elements. The isolated ASR is incomplete and misses key parts such as 'strengthening' and 'implementation', but the reference itself is a reasonable paraphrase though somewhat compressed and missing some specifics.

> In two centuries, this period saw human society leapfrog from the age of electricity and computers into a digital intelligence era.

Alignment audit · The reference captures the general progression of human society through technological eras (electricity, computers, digital intelligence) as in the source, but it omits the metaphor of 'the wheel of history crossing centuries' and the explicit mention of 'electrification era' and 'computer era' as distinct stages. The ASR matches the reference closely, indicating no significant disagreement. Alignment audit · The source mentions countries continuing through communication and cooperation, enduring Cold War confrontation, financial crises, and pandemics, proving a simple point. The reference and ASR both capture the idea of weathering vicissitudes like the Cold War standoff, financial crises, and pandemics through staying connected and working together, concluding with proving a simple yet powerful point. However, the source is incomplete and repetitive, lacking the full context and the exact wording of '80 years that followed' and 'succession of vicissitudes.' However, the source emphasizes 'cada vez más petróleo' (increasingly more oil) and the phrase 'Taladrar, taladrar y taladrar, dicen sin piedad' (Drill, drill, and drill, they say mercilessly), which are only partially reflected or omitted in the reference and ASR. They've been allied for decades.

Alignment audit · The reference and ASR include the main ideas of the source about politicians bribed by the Colombian drug mafia, their alliance with the extreme right in Florida, and their current alliance with the Trump administration over decades. However, the source specifically mentions 'Presidentes, ministros, ligados y sobornados por la mafia colombiana' (presidents, ministers, linked and bribed by the Colombian mafia), while the reference and ASR add 'senators' which is not in the source. Also, the source does not mention peasants being massacred, which is introduced in the reference and ASR, adding unrelated material. Therefore, while the core ideas overlap, there is additional unrelated content and some expansion beyond the source, making the fit partial rather than fully supported.

However, the source's last meaningful idea about 'bâtir à coups de résolution et de détermination' (building with resolutions and determination) is only partially reflected in the vague phrase 'we were through' in both the reference and ASR, which is ambiguous and does not clearly convey the constructive effort described in the source. However, the reference omits the part about 'others times because the verification rules were not duly observed' as a separate cause and compresses ideas, which is typical for interpretation. The isolated ASR matches part of the reference but omits the verification rules issue, indicating some discrepancy. Overall, the opening idea about causes in recent years and the last meaningful idea about technological acceleration both appear, but the middle cause is less clearly represented, leading to a partial fit.

Alignment audit · The reference and ASR include the source's opening idea about combating threats from dangerous weapons and the development of biological weapons once and for all. They also mention nuclear weapons, aligning with the source's inclusion of nuclear weapons. However, the reference and ASR add evaluative comments ('Ces armes biologiques sont terribles', 'c'est encore pire') and additional statements about wishing countries to cease producing nuclear weapons, which are not present in the source. The source's last meaningful idea is 'And we include nuclear in that,' which is present but without the extended commentary.
